

PREPWORKS Awarded Best College Readiness Program

MIAMI--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

PREPWORKS (www.prepworks2400.com) has been awarded the 2013 Education Software Review Award (EDDIE) for best college readiness website. The international award, given by The ComputED Gazette, recognizes excellence and advancement in online education.

Now in its 18th year, the EDDIE continues to highlight innovative and content-rich programs and websites, including mobile and tablet solutions that augment the classroom curriculum and improve teacher productivity, providing parents and educators with the technology to foster educational excellence. Winners are selected from titles submitted by publishers worldwide. The award marks the second international honor in less than a year for PREPWORKS; the company also received the 2013 Best Educational Software Award (BESSIE) for their adaptive test preparation software.

“We are proud to receive this recognition from respected peers that have reviewed the latest software and technology that is disrupting the ways students learn and achieve,” said Michael Penney, PREPWORKS Chief Technology Officer.

PREPWORKS continues to change the game with their proprietary Learning Positioning System™ technology (LPS), offering each and every student a personalized path to increased outcomes on standardized tests. LPS is the educational equivalent of a GPS navigation system and allows individual students to maximize achievement on high-stakes tests, promoting strong foundational knowledge and college readiness.

“We are proud to see personalized learning take shape with our LPS technology,” said Tracy LaFlamme Ortega, PREPWORKS CEO. “Today, thousands of students in the United States and abroad are making major strides using our adaptive and interactive program.”
